Practical Ideas and Strategies

In this exciting seminar, award-winning librarian, author, and presenter CHRISTINA DORR shares her insider information on the ins and outs of award committees, list committees, and the world of book reviewing. Christina brings years of practical experience having served on a number of state and national book award committees over the last 20 years, and she regularly reviews for Hornbook Magazine. With hundreds of awards given annually to children’s books, teachers and librarians are keen to select only the best titles to use with their students. Going well beyond simply familiarizing you with the various awards, Christina will introduce you to scores of the most outstanding award-winning children’s books. Join Christina for an energizing and inspiring day full of the very best award-winning books of the last five years, plus a host of strategies and techniques that you can use immediately, successfully and powerfully to integrate these books into your classroom or library program.

A Message From Seminar Leader, Christina Dorr

Uniquely Qualified Instructor

CHRISTINA DORR is an award-winning librarian, author and presenter with extensive award-winning books experience. She has served on a number of state and national award committees including the Caldecott, Coretta Scott King, Geisel Award, and Stonewall. She reviews for Hornbook Magazine and has reviewed and written for several other journals including School Library Journal, Book Links, School Library Connection, and more. For many years Christina has presented on the best children's and young adult literature. Her latest published book is Profiles in Resilience: Books for Children and Teens That Center the Lived Experience of Generational Poverty (American Library Association, 2021). She is also the author of The Best Award-Winning Children's Books and Powerful Strategies to Use Them in Your Program, the extensive digital resource handbook you will receive at the seminar. Join Christina for an outstanding day! Going well beyond simply familiarizing you with the various awards, Christina will introduce you to scores of the most outstanding award-winning children's books and how to use them in your program.

Dear Colleague:

Do you remember hiding under the covers in bed and reading with a flashlight when you were younger? That thrill has remained with me since I first learned to read. We all have the same mission today— to inspire young minds to fall in love with reading— to hide under their own blankets to finish reading that perfect book. We know that when we read with engagement, students are pulled into that reading zone where another world is entered, and time stands still.

I have eagerly awaited the winning and honored book titles each year, sometimes being thrilled with the selections, and sometimes scratching my head over them. However, many of the most outstanding books are the ones that did not win the high-profile awards. I love sharing these less well-known award-winning books every bit as much as the “big award” winners. I think you will be amazed, delighted and surprised to discover many of these. When we discuss ways to use these in your program, that will be the frosting on the cake!

With hundreds of different awards given to children's books annually, keeping track of the best, most high-quality literature for our students can be daunting. But I can help! I have served on award and list committees for over 25 years and written for School Library Journal, Horn Book Magazine, Book Links, School Library Connection, and more. I have also presented on the best children's and young adult books for many years. I am excited to share with you the very best of these award-winning books, and ideas that I have successfully used to excite my own students about reading, that you can also use in your program.

Though we will examine the best award-winning books from the last five years, we will also look at plenty of BRAND NEW books that will be in the running to win awards this coming year, if my past predictions are any indication. I think we will have a lot of fun complaining about some awards and even arguing with each other about what did or did not win. We will also examine outstanding books that should have been contenders. You will leave knowing dozens of the best award-winning books perfect for your grades K-6 students, and terrific ideas for using them in your classroom or library program.

Sincerely,

Christina Dorr

P.S. Prepare to laugh, have fun and argue politely (but with spirit). I look forward to meeting you at the seminar!

"With hundreds of different awards given to children's books annually, keeping track of the best, most high-quality literature for our students can be daunting. But I can help!"
