Practical Ideas and Strategies

Are you an early childhood or Kindergarten educator who is looking for ways to improve your students' social interactions in your classroom? Maybe you are tired of arguments over crayons and fights over pencils? This seminar has been designed to address your needs in a fun, engaging, and motivating way! In this NEW program from award-winning teacher and best-selling author, Adam Peterson, you will discover positive, engaging, interactive, and age-appropriate strategies that you can implement right away in your classroom. You will leave with dozens of ideas to help your early learners self-manage their social behavior during individual and small group time, as well as ideas to help promote teamwork and more positive interactions between all your students.

A Message From Seminar Leader, Adam Peterson

Uniquely Qualified Instructor

ADAM PETERSON is an award-winning Pre-K and Kindergarten educator, best-selling author, and internationally recognized speaker. After spending more than a decade as a Kindergarten teacher, Adam now also uses his knowledge and talents to inspire, educate, and motivate colleagues to create classrooms that encourage creativity, play, hands-on learning, and more positive social interactions. He is the author of the best-selling book, Teach, Play, Learn!, as well as the author of many children's books. He is also the author of Help Students Develop Better Social Behavior for Increased School Success (Pre-K and Kindergarten), the extensive digital resource handbook each participant will receive at the seminar.

Dear Colleague:

Hello amazing Pre-K and Kindergarten colleagues! It's no secret to us that we have the best job in the world! I also do not have to tell you how challenging it can be to manage so many different behaviors and emotions in your Pre-K and Kindergarten classroom throughout the school day. Learning is social, and our students have been through a lot in the past few years and have had limited social interaction. As early educators, we know that it is in these interactions that children learn how to problem solve more independently and gain important skills to get along well with their peers. For this reason, I have planned a day specifically to help you create a classroom environment to help promote more positive social interactions between your students. Using highly engaging activities and kid-friendly approaches to learning you will be ready to start implementing these ideas right away.

Join your colleagues and me for a day of music, games, activities, and more, all centered around teaching more positive social behaviors. I will share the best of what has worked for me in my years as a Pre-K and Kindergarten teacher, as well as tried and true activities I've helped other educators around the country implement.

I'm so excited to spend the day with you talking all things positivity and giving you multiple ideas that you can use with your students the minute you return to your classroom. I have made it my goal to help make early childhood education the most fun, engaging, and positive experience for all learners and I can't wait for you to join me!

Sincerely,

Adam Peterson

P.S. Get ready to play! Positive social behaviors start when kids are engaged and what better way to learn than to participate in the activities you'll be teaching your own students!

"I will share the best of what has worked for me in my years as a Pre-K and Kindergarten teacher, as well as tried and true activities I've helped other educators around the country implement."

What Your Colleagues Say About Adam Peterson

"Adam was wonderful. I appreciate the real-life examples that I can implement immediately. He broke things down in a way that does not feel overwhelming as I return to my classroom tomorrow. I also appreciate all the extra resources."

– Ashley Kruse, Kindergarten Teacher

"Adam was wonderful and very insightful!"

– Taylor McDermott, Pre-K Teacher

"Adam is very passionate about teaching. He was engaging and fun! Loved all the tips and strategies."

– Liz Daniel, Special Education Preschool Teacher

"This was potentially the best professional development seminar I have attended in terms of curriculum. Adam provided concrete examples of exercises and activities that I could employ in my class, as well as share with my teachers in the elementary grades at our school. As Adam introduced each activity, he provided excellent ideas on how to adapt each one to the needs of a class. I highly recommend this seminar. A new teacher or veteran teacher could equally benefit from this program. Bravo, Adam!"

– Mary Ryan-Thornton, Pre-K Teacher
