Practical Ideas and Strategies

As History/Social Studies educators, we want to inspire our students to learn intrinsically, because THEY WANT TO, not because there is a grade attached. In this outstanding NEW seminar, you’ll learn how to appeal to the creative side of all your students, regardless of their abilities and interests. Join award-winning and innovative Social Studies teacher, RHETT OLDHAM, as he shares over 100 of the best, highly engaging, and easy-to-implement strategies designed to maximize your Social Studies instruction. By following the “5 in 5 Rule” that Rhett uses in his own Social Studies classroom, you will deliver highly creative and appealing lessons that are surprisingly easy to create and are designed to make the learning stick for your students. You won’t want to miss this day, specifically for middle and high school History/Social Studies teachers, filled with practical tools, techniques and resources that will appeal to your students. Join Rhett for an outstanding day full of strategies you can use tomorrow and for years to come!

A Message From Seminar Leader, Rhett Oldham

Uniquely Qualified Instructor

RHETT OLDHAM is a highly experienced and current secondary Social Studies teacher. Rhett is a Gilder Lehrman Teacher of the Year in his state, and a National Finalist. He is a Fulbright Fellow who is passionate about making the Social Studies classroom a fun and dynamic place for middle and high school students to learn. Rhett has presented to educators in the UK, Ukraine, Morocco, Jordan, and throughout the United States, and is known for sharing innovative teaching ideas that can translate to any classroom. He is an EdPuzzle Certified Coach, Flipgrid Ambassador, eMints Certified Educator, GoSynth Ambassador, and a current member of the Federal Reserve Bank of St Louis Educator Advisory Board. Rhett is also the author of Outstanding, Innovative Strategies to Maximize SOCIAL STUDIES Instruction (Grades 6-12), the extensive digital resource handbook you will receive at the seminar. Join Rhett for an exciting day of learning and exploration, filled with a wealth of practical ideas that you will want to use tomorrow and for years to come in your Social Studies instruction.

Dear Colleague:

It's not that traditional Social Studies lessons are wrong or bad, but the students we teach today have never known a world without technology. Good teaching practices and strong pedagogy never goes out of style, and with slight adjustments, we can easily incorporate them into strategies that will engage our 21st century students. I want to show you how!

In this seminar, I will introduce you to my education philosophy called the "5 In 5 Rule," and it answers a simple question, "Can your students remember 5 things that happened in your Social Studies classroom, 5 years after they have left?" By creating lessons and learning activities that are fun and engaging, your students will leave your classroom with memories. Memories that go beyond the pages of a textbook. Memories that go beyond remembering names and dates. Memories that strengthen student learning, and spark interest and curiosity outside of the walls of your classroom.

While the ideas I present are research-based, this is not a seminar that takes a deep dive in theory. The focus of our day will be on outstanding, highly practical strategies and learning techniques specifically for maximizing your Social Studies instruction. We will dive deep into strategies I use in my classroom with my own students every day. We'll explore highly appealing techniques you can use to increase the engagement and success of your students of all abilities and interests.

I have yet to meet a Social Studies teacher who told me the reason they entered the education field was to lecture and pass out worksheets. We teach to inspire and ignite that intrinsic desire in our students to learn. Where students are motivated to complete assignments not just because there is a grade attached to them, but because they are fun and they appeal to what students are interested in learning.

I invite you to join me for an action-packed day filled with talking Social Studies shop, gaining many new and terrific ideas for our instruction, and discussing the greatest profession in the world ... TEACHING MIDDLE AND HIGH SCHOOL SOCIAL STUDIES!

Sincerely,

Rhett Oldham

Rhett Oldham

P.S. Be prepared to fill your teacher toolbox with ideas and strategies you will use tomorrow and for years to come in your Social Studies instruction.

'The focus of our day will be on outstanding, highly practical strategies and learning techniques specifically for maximizing your Social Studies instruction. We will dive deep into strategies I use in my classroom with my own students every day.'
